How to Paint

USING THIS GUIDE

On the following pages, you will find a step-by-step guide to painting the Citadel miniatures showcased in this book. In each case, you will see a quick reference guide to painting the featured model. While these guides make a great starting point, you will find far more detailed information on the Citadel paints, tools and techniques featured here in How To Paint Citadel Miniatures. For best results, we heartily recommend that you keep your copy near to hand while following these guides.

To one side of every page that showcases a model's paint scheme, you will see our quick reference guide. This is laid out in numbered steps and gives you the basic information required to paint your models so that they match those shown.

The top part of each step of the reference guide tells you which technique to use, the middle section tells you the Citadel paint, wash or glaze in use, while the bottom refers to the specific type of Citadel paintbrush that is being utilised. The small band of colour on the left of the brush name is colour-coded to match the ends of the brushes in your Citadel brush collection, making it even easier to pick the correct tool.

The smaller image at the bottom indicates which part on the finished model relates to this stage of the painting process.

How to Paint

UNDERCOATING MINIATURES

Before you begin painting your Citadel miniatures, you will want to prime them. This process, known as undercoating, provides a smooth, even surface for you to paint onto.

Easily the fastest and most effective way to undercoat your models is to use a spray undercoat. Citadel Spray Paints are formulated to give you an excellent finish that your Citadel Base paints will adhere to effortlessly.

Spray Undercoat

Citadel Spray Paints, including the Chaos Black Spray used in this book, are quick to use, especially across large numbers of models, and they enable you to get great results in next to no time. With that said, however, you will need access to a well-ventilated area (usually outside) to spray your models, for obvious health and safety reasons. Using spray undercoat can also be rather messy (as you might expect) so it's worth setting up a spot to work – spraying into a cardboard box or similar can be a very good idea, for example.

Undercoating by Hand

There are times when using a spray undercoat might not be convenient. Undercoating by hand is a worthy alternative – hobbyists have been doing it for years! Imperial Primer is specially designed for undercoating by hand. Water it down (just a little) and paint it onto your models using a Wash Brush.

Not Just Black & White

The Citadel range includes Chaos Black Spray and Skull White Spray, both of which are ideal for undercoating your Citadel miniatures. However, there are also a number of other spray paints available which can save you a lot of time when painting an army. Spray paints like Mephiston Red Spray and Macragge Blue Spray can be applied as an undercoat and a basecoat in one. Check out the full range of Citadel Spray Paints on our website.
